A NEW FOURTH

Reasons Why We Will Have a Patriotic Fourth Without Fireworks

Once upon a time long, long ago a great event took place in American history. As the importance of that event came to be duly appreciated by the people, they agreed that its anniversary should be fittingly observed. They felt that it should be a holiday on which boys and girls should be reminded of the sacrifices, made and hardships endured by the men and women of 1776 in order that they and we might enjoy the privileges and benefits of freedom.

Our worthy ancestor, John Adams showed his characteristic foresight when he said in a letter to his wife, "This fourth day of July, 1776, will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other and from this time forward forevermore."

The "guns" and "bonfires" part of the celebration was easy to carry out and appealed strongly to the populace. Yankee ingenuity developed all sorts of noise-producing devices until the Fourth became a time of unrestrained dissipation, especially on the part of boys, large and small, around with firecrackers, pistols, torpedoes, giant crackers and toy cannon. What was meant to perpetuate a great idea became a menace.

But we patriots of Bennington have been pioneers as advocates of the safe and sane celebration idea for several years past. This year, when our great nation is facing a financial crisis, we are going a step farther. After serious deliberation, the committee in charge of the arrangements has decided not to ask, according to the usual custom, those generous citizens who always contribute to every patriotic or civic cause, for donations for a display of fireworks. Never before in Bennington has there been such loyal support of charity, both at home and abroad as this year. It seems hardly in keeping with the prevailing spirit of economy to expend $200 upon fireworks which afford us only an hour of superficial pleasure. Instead we may turn our contribution to something which will give permanent benefit and enjoyment.

Accordingly we will celebrate with "games, sports, bells, bonfires and illuminations and parade" and it gives us much satisfaction to realize that we find justification in so noble a hero as John Adams. All the patriotic organizations are united in this sentiment. The D. A. R., the W. R. C., Sons of Veterans, the Camp Fire Girls, together with all the playground attendants, personifying young America will join in making an imposing Peace Parade. Music and bonfires will give further expression to our patriotic feelings.

NORTH BENNINGTON

Tucker-Chapter No. 38 O. E. S. will serve a dinner July 4th to the public. Watch for further notice.

Mrs. Margaret Colvin, who recently underwent an operation at the home of her son, George Colvin in Providence, R. I., does not seem to improve.

Hurrah for the Fourth at North Bennington! Starts in the morning with a division parade; speeches, foot races, base ball game and ends with the usual grand display of fireworks. Something doing every minute and at noon the ladies of the Eastern Star will serve a big dinner on Bank street. A good day, a good time, and everybody invited.

CHITTENDEN COUNTY FARMERS

Organizing to Get the Services of Agricultural Agent.

Burlington, June 23.—In the canvass for membership in the Chittenden County Farmers' association, the 300 mark has been passed, and the work of securing additional members is going forward encouragingly.

The association is now in working order and ready for the services of the county agent. The Vermont agricultural extension service is laboring diligently to find a man who will be thoroughly equipped and personally agreeable to the farmers of Chittenden county, and who will be able by means of demonstration work and advice, to aid in increasing in a substantial manner the agricultural output of the county.

THOUGHT SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Unionville, Mo.—"I suffered from a female trouble and I got so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without holding on to something. I had nervous spells and my fingers would cramp and my face would draw, and I could not sleep, nor sleep to do any good, had no appetite, and everyone thought I would not live."

Some one advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had taken so much medicine and my doctor said he could do me no good so I told my husband he might get me a bottle and I would try it. By the time I had taken it I felt better. I continued its use, and now I am well and strong.

"I have always recommended your medicine ever since I was so wonderfully benefited by it and I hope this letter will be the means of saving some other poor woman from suffering."

Mrs. MARTHA SEAVEY, Box 1144, Unionville, Missouri.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for years.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Wanted His Reward.

A clergyman, whose name is not necessary to the chronicle, had invoked Mr. Choate's services in the settlement of a much involved and heavy estate. He received his bill in due time. Mr. Choate, it may be remarked by way of parenthesis, did not become a millionaire and thus enable himself to accept an office whose annual expenses are $50,000 more than his emoluments by omitting to send bills to clients. The clergyman accordingly was not overlooked.

The client appeared in a few days with a smile of deprecation. "I always understood, Mr. Choate," he objected, "that you gentlemen of the bar were not in the habit of charging clerical men for your services."

"You are much in error," returned Mr. Choate firmly, "much in error. You look for your reward in the next world, but we lawyers have to get ours in this."—Denver Post.

Worthy.

I may not reach the heights I seek; My untried strength may fail me. Or halfway up the mountain peak Fierce tempests may assail me; But, though my goal I never see, This thought shall always dwell with me: I will be worthy of it.

I may not triumph in success Despite my earnest labor; I may not grasp results that bless The efforts of my auditors; But, though life's dearest joy I miss, There lies a nameless strength in this: I will be worthy of it.

Reckless Generosity.

The late Rev. W. W. Freeman related a story illustrative of the way that a man's heart can swell and prompt him to great liberality under some extraordinary conditions. A big, raw boned, red headed young farmer entered his parlor one day, accompanied by a shy but comely girl, and desired him to perform the marriage ceremony. He did so, and when the faithful words were spoken that made the couple man and wife, the young husband drew from his pocket four bright silver quarter dollar pieces and, extending them toward the minister in his open palm, exclaimed, "There, Brother Freeman, just help yourself until you are satisfied." The minister took one.—Argonaut.

Twisted Sibilants.

A very pretty girl from a western town was the latest arrival at a select boarding school in Massachusetts. Being pretty and well dressed, she became very popular.

She was elected to be an usher for the monthly musicale, and, being painfully shy, she was much wrought up over it. She never could do it—no, never! But the election was positive; there was no drawing out. The evening found her a perfect flutter of pink furls, awaiting to receive the early comers. Each of the other young women who were acting in this capacity bore forward an imposing auditor, and Elsie found herself inquiring of a very old and elegant gentleman in a voice scarcely audible:

"Sir, shall I show you to a seat?" "What? What? What?" demanded the austere old fellow, holding his hand to his ear.

"Sir," she screamed in a flustered voice, "shall I show you to a seat?"—Harper's Magazine.

The "Spell" of Mrs. Langtry.

The Jersey Lily once neatly scored at the expense of George Bernard Shaw, who was then much inked about in London and who was regarded by most folk as the incarnation of audacious coarseness.

He was commenting on the limitations put upon him in his newspaper articles, among which were characteristic criticism in the lines of music and drama. He declared that such was the censorship over him by his editors that he really had no freedom to express his opinions in the English press, and it was to Mrs. Langtry that he said:

"I shall publish a magazine some of these days, in which I shall print my opinions on all the topics of the day. I have enough of them to spare. On art, literature, philosophy, music, the drama, socialism, religion and every other subject this magazine shall reflect Shaw. I shall write every line of it too. The experiment may be futile, but the first step shall surely be taken."

"What shall you call your magazine?" Mrs. Langtry inquired.

"I'll give it a concise and appropriate title by naming it after myself." "Ah!" sweetly spoke the Lily. "And how shall you spell it?"—Detroit Free Press.

A High Calling.

Tommy was thirteen, and only the recording angel knew what was the age of Aunt Katy, but the little old colored woman and the college fisherman were each getting their first taste of New York life that winter. One effect on Tommy was to make him want a silk hat.

"Now, what do you think of Tommy's wanting a silk hat, Aunt Katy?" exclaimed Tommy's mother, who was having a hard time adjusting herself to having for a son a young man instead of just a boy.

"What he want with a silk hat? He ain't no preacher."

"But, Aunt Katy, other people besides preachers wear silk hats. Haven't you noticed the men in silk hats on the streets? Every other man you meet has one on on Sunday."

"Yessum, an' I jes' been tryin' to tigger out where all them preachers preached!"—New York Post.
